

North Fork of Accotink Creek – Now you see it. Now you don't.

Disappearing act as 100 yards of the North Fork vanishes into eternal darkness, circa 2018

Admittedly, this stretch of the North Fork already resembled a ditch, but why did that not inspire restoration and improvement, instead of obliteration? This is not a case of necessity. The sole beneficiary is the bottom line of the private project whose construction activity is seen in the lower photo - Green space for Greenbacks. Sadly, the Friends of Accotink Creek were oblivious to this atrocity until it was done.
